- Gives the surface water repellent properties

At PPG we are very aware of our responsibility to help taking care of the environment. Therefore, we are constantly researching into new, innovative technologies in order to reduce chemical agents in our products. This research has resulted in the Long Effect technology, which is a new and innovative way of prolonging the durability of our wood protection products, once you have applied them to your wood.

Durability LONG EFFECT Technology

The Technology

Long Effect is a new, unique technology, which not only keeps your wood healthy for a longer time, but also takes better care of our environment. Products with Long Effect technology contain less than half the amount of chemicals compared to conventional wood protection products.

Traditional wood protection products will release the majority of the active agents in the first period after application. This means that your wood will be extremely well protected for the first period of time, but then the level of active agents remaining will be too low to keep up the good protection.

BONDEX Decking Stain is available in 4 colours

Clear

Oak

Teak

Nut Brown

BONDEX Decking Stain enhances the natural wood structure, and can be used on all wood species.
